Vocabulary and Reading

Monday

Vocabulary refers to the words we must understand to communicate effectively. ... A reader cannot understand a text without knowing what most of the words mean. Students learn the meanings of most words indirectly, through everyday experiences with oral and written language.

Vocabulary Web

Task: as we read the text just like last week make a web of new words, words you do not understand, words that stand out to you.

5. Charlotte

THE NIGHT seemed long. Wilbur's stomach was empty and his mind was full. And when your stomach is empty and your mind is full, it's always hard to sleep.

A dozen times during the night Wilbur woke and stared into the blackness, listening to the sounds and trying to figure out what time it was. A barn is never perfectly quiet. Even at midnight there is usually something stirring.

The first time he woke, he heard Templeton gnawing a hole in the grain bin. Templeton's teeth scraped loudly against the wood and made quite a racket. 'That crazy rat!' thought Wilbur. 'Why does he have to stay up all night, grinding his clashers and destroying people's property? Why can't he go to sleep, like any decent animal?'

The second time Wilbur woke, he heard the goose turning on her nest and chuckling to herself.

'What time is it?' whispered Wilbur to the goose.

'Probably-obably-obably about half-past eleven,' said the goose. 'Why aren't you asleep, Wilbur?'

'Too many things on my mind,' said Wilbur.

'Well,' said the goose, 'that's not my trouble. I have nothing at all on my mind, but I've too many things under my behind. Have you ever tried to sleep while sitting on eight eggs?'

'No,' replied Wilbur. 'I suppose it is uncomfortable. How long does it take a goose egg to hatch?'

'Approximately-oximately thirty days, all told,' answered the goose. 'But I cheat a little. On warm afternoons, I just pull a little straw over the eggs and go out for a walk.'

Wilbur yawned and went back to sleep. In his dreams he heard again the voice saying, 'I'll be a friend to you. Go to sleep – you'll see me in the morning.'

About half an hour before dawn, Wilbur woke and listened. The barn was still dark. The sheep lay motionless. Even the goose was quiet. Overhead, on the main floor, nothing stirred:

the cows were resting, the horses dozed. Templeton had quit work and gone off somewhere on an errand. The only sound was a slight scraping noise from the rooftop, where the weather-vane swung back and forth. Wilbur loved the barn when it was like this – calm and quiet, waiting for light.

'Day is almost here,' he thought.

Through a small window, a faint gleam appeared. One by one the stars went out. Wilbur could see the goose a few feet away. She sat with head tucked under a wing. Then he could see the sheep and the lambs. The sky lightened.

'Oh, beautiful day, it is here at last! Today I shall find my friend.'

Wilbur looked everywhere. He searched his pen thoroughly. He examined the window ledge, stared up at the ceiling. But he saw nothing new. Finally he decided he would have to speak up. He hated to break the lovely stillness of dawn by using his voice, but he couldn't think of any other way to locate the mysterious new friend who was nowhere to be seen. So Wilbur cleared his throat.

'Attention, please!' he said in a loud, firm voice. 'Will the party who addressed me at bedtime last night kindly make himself or herself known by giving an appropriate sign or signal?'

Wilbur paused and listened. All the other animals lifted their heads and stared at him. Wilbur blushed. But he was determined to get in touch with his unknown friend.

'Attention, please!' he said. 'I will repeat the message. Will the party who addressed me at bedtime last night kindly speak up. Please tell me where you are, if you are my friend!'

The sheep looked at each other in disgust.

'Stop your nonsense, Wilbur!' said the oldest sheep. 'If you have a new friend here, you are probably disturbing his rest; and the quickest way to spoil a friendship is to wake somebody up in the morning before he is ready. How can you be sure your friend is an early riser?'

'I beg everyone's pardon,' whispered Wilbur. 'I didn't mean to be objectionable.'

He lay down meekly in the manure, facing the door. He did not know it, but his friend was very near. And the old sheep was right – the friend was still asleep.

Soon Lurvy appeared with slops for breakfast. Wilbur rushed out, ate everything in a hurry, and licked the trough. The sheep moved off down the lane, the gander waddled along behind them, pulling grass. And then, just as Wilbur was settling down for his morning nap, he heard

Freedom

'How does it feel to be free?' She asked.' I like it' said Wilbur. 'That is, I guess I like it'. Actually, Wilbur felt quite queer to be outside his fence, with nothing between him and the big world. (pg22)

Why do you think that Wilbur feels trouble with his current freedom?

Answer Box

Do you think that feeling free and being free are two different things?
